Dear

We are honoured to announce that the Second Annual Summit of China Green Companies will be held in Beijing on 22-23 April, 2009. The summit aims to promote the integration of business strategies, human values and ecological culture and to explore sustainable development of business to shape the new business culture in the 21st century.

Business, political and academic leaders with foresight and innovation spirit across the world will participate in dialogues on various subjects, such as Next Growth Engine of Global Economy, National Strategy of China, Nurturing Enterprise's Green Genes, Balancing Values among Stakeholders and etc. Delegates will try to explore ways of sustainable developments for business and the human civilization.

You are sincerely invited to participate in the summit and witness the Grand Award Ceremony of the Annual China Green Benchmarking Companies together with our other distinguished guests and journalists from leading Chinese media. We do look forward to your positive reply.

Yours sincerely,

Green Revolution: Forecast new Business Culture

What leads business out of crisis?

What are the common values needed for the future?

Explore solutions in the context of dual challenges of economic and ecological crisis; probe into the construction of new business culture; reconstruct the global economic domain; find solutions for the future of both business and society. All the topics are challenging our capacity in strategic thinking.

The present crisis is catalyzing a revolution in the business world: A new growth engine is called and the economy driven by immoderate consumption is giving way to a much greener economy that balances resources, energy and developments of human beings. China is undergoing a transformation: From an extensive economy leading to resource waste and environment deterioration into an environmental friendly economy. Such a change calls for a new business philosophy that values the balance of rewards among all stakeholders rather than focus on the shareholders solely.

The summit is a forecast of the green revolution. It will set right direction and seek new powers for business developments, and thereby nurture a new business culture.
